Health Tips : Cyberbullying

Cyberbullying occurs when technology is used to deliberately and repeatedly engage in unfriendly behaviour to upset and hurt someone. Groups and individuals can be both the perpetrators and targets of bullying.

Cyberbullying can occur in a number of ways including:

- abusive texts and emails,
- posting unkind messages or images,
- imitating others online,
- excluding others online and
- inappropriate image tagging

Cyberbullying can happen to anyone, not just children and young people. It can be more damaging than offline bullying as it can occur 24/7, have a very large audience and be difficult to escape. It can invade a young persons social world both online and offline. As with offline bullying, cyberbullying can have long lasting consequences and children need support to manage this.

For more information or support on cyberbullying visit www.raisingchildren.net.au or <https://kidshelpline.com.au> or <http://au.reachout.com>

Cyberbullying - How To Spot It

Many young people who are being bullied online won't tell their parents because they are ashamed or worried about losing their computer privileges. Warning signs that your child may be being cyberbullied include:

- being upset during or after using the internet
- withdrawing from friends and activities, avoiding school or group gatherings

- being moodier than usual, showing obvious changes in behaviour/sleep/appetite
- spending much longer than usual online, or refusing to use the computer at all
- exiting or clicking out of a computer activity if a person walks by
- bringing home lower marks than usual
- 'acting out' in anger at home
- having trouble sleeping, and/or
- frequently complaining of feeling sick, headaches/stomach aches.

For more information or support on cyberbullying visit www.raisingchildren.net.au or <https://kidshelpline.com.au> or <http://au.reachout.com>

Cyberbullying - Tips For Parents

- Talk to your child about cyberbullying now. Work with your child to develop strategies for dealing with cyberbullying if it happens.
- Identify one or two other trusted adults that your child feels comfortable to talk to about cyberbullying.
- Know what your children are doing online. Set filters so they can be safe online.
- Communicate openly with your child. Help your child learn how to interact safely and respectfully online.
- Put the computer in a shared or visible place in the home.
- Talk with your child about which sites are okay to visit. Have clear rules about their online activity.
- Help your child to block anyone who sends offensive content.
- For more information on bullying and cyberbullying visit the Raising Children Network www.raisingchildren.net.au

If you think your child is being cyberbullied...

- Talk to them about changes in their mood or behaviour. Help them to stay connected with people they trust.
- Contact the police if you have serious concerns for your child's safety.
- Work to save evidence of the cyberbullying behaviour. It may be needed by the child's school or Internet Service Provider, or by the police.
- Ask the school to explain their processes around cyberbullying.
- Don't ignore the situation. Listen to your child and give them the help they need.

For more information or support on cyberbullying visit www.raisingchildren.net.au or <https://kidshelpline.com.au> or <http://au.reachout.com>
